esprit orchestra profile

Esprit is Canada's only full-sized orchestra uniquely devoted to commissioning and performing contemporary orchestral music by Canadian composers. In its fifteen year history, Esprit has commissioned fifty new Canadian works, premiering them along with other new works commissioned by leading Canadian ensembles and soloists.

Since 1983 Esprit has performed almost 200 individual works, and, as part of Esprit's commitment to the advancement of new orchestral music for today's and future audiences, has performed many of these works more than once — to ensure they become part of a living musical fabric. Esprit also has a tradition of setting Canadian music within an international context and has premiered dozens of new works by leading international composers for Canadian audiences.

Each year Esprit presents a subscription series and performs other special concerts, often joined by world-renowned guest soloists. Esprit's music can also be heard broadcast on such CBC Stereo and CBC Radio programmes as Two New Hours, Encore, ONSTAGE and Radio Concert Hall, as well as in several films by Canada's internationally-acclaimed Rhombus Media Inc.

This year Esprit will release its 4th compact disc of all-Canadian music on CBC Record's SM5000 label. The disc features four orchestral works by Colin McPhee — never before collected onto one disc. (Some have never been recorded at all.) Last year Esprit's Music for Heaven and Earth (SMCD5154), featuring McPhee's Nocturne along with music by Alexina Louie, Harry Freedman and Robert Aitken, was given a 5-star rating by BBC Music Magazine.
